DENY GENERAL ESCAPE PLOTTED AT MENTAL HOME

Royal City Police Asked To End Sweepstake Complaint Leads To Anti-lottery Move In New Westminster

Pastor Sends Sample Sweepstake Ticket to Attorney-General of British Columbia; Police Commission Receives Letter With Information From Pooley and Will Meet to Investigate Whether Sweepstake Is Being Carried On and What Official Action Is Needed.

Canadian Press
New Westminster, April 29.—Acting on a letter received today from Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General, the New Westminster Police Commission will hold a special meeting to consider a sweepstake stated to be under way in this city. The commission will meet either late today or Thursday.

Mr. Pooley in his communication said he had received a letter from Rev. T. W. Reed, in which the latter wrote a sweepstake was being carried on in New Westminster. A sweepstake ticket No. 13-A was forwarded to Mr. Pooley by Mr. Reed, who said it had been handed to him by a local citizen.

EVIDENCE NEEDED
"I officially draw your attention to this matter and suggest you call on the reverend gentleman and get the necessary evidence, and if this is proved then proper steps should be taken in these premises," stated Mr. Pooley.

The Attorney-General said he had advised Mr. Reed it was the duty of the police commission to enforce the law.

New Westminster, April 29.—Because they give "such powerful stimulus to the gambling habit and dry up the springs of true charity," the Sixth Avenue United Church congregation of this city unanimously opposes sweepstakes for Canadian hospitals and those which induce Canadians to contribute to lotteries in other countries.

The congregation has passed a strongly worded resolution, backing up the opposition voiced by the General Council of the United Church of Canada to this form of raising money for charitable purposes. The resolution arises out of recent suggestions in Vancouver that sweepstakes would be an effective remedy for the prevailing deficits of British Columbia hospitals.

JEWELRY WORTH $18,000 TAKEN BY CHICAGO THUGS

Chicago, April 29.—Four masked gunmen terrorized seven members of the I. M. Bailen household here yesterday evening and escaped with jewelry valued at $18,000.

Bailen, a furrier, his wife, daughter, nephew and three servants were threatened with shooting unless they revealed to the quartette where the jewels were hidden.

Earlier prowlers entered the home of Charles L. Krum, president of the Morrum Company, during absence of the family and escaped with loot valued at $25,000.

Believe Thugs Who Robbed Harrison Hot Springs Hotel Are Hiding in Terminal City After Evading Searching Squads

Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 29.—That the three desperados who blew the safe of the Harrison Hot Springs Hotel early Monday morning and made off with $700 in cash and securities after a running gun battle with police officers escaped through the network of searchers in the Deroc district and are probably in Vancouver was practically confirmed by police reports received here today.

Report of that theft followed a report that the automobile of William Murray, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Chilliwack, had been stolen from his garage early Monday evening and later found abandoned on the Sumas Prairie Road, a short distance east of Abbotsford.

FARMERS WILL URGE RESEARCH BE CONTINUED

Delegations Plan to Protest Reduction at University of British Columbia

Claim Agriculture Will Suffer From Enforced Abandonment of Farm

Delegations representing farmers' institutes and other organizations representing every branch of agriculture in British Columbia, disappointed at the necessity of abandoning the University of British Columbia farm and the important research work conducted there, plan to interview the provincial government to appeal against the $145,000 reduction in the University estimates which has made this action necessary.

Faced with no other alternative in view of the drastic cut in the University vote the board of governors were forced at their meeting on Monday to reach a decision to confine the agriculture faculty to straight teaching of agriculture. They found themselves unable to meet the wishes of the many delegations which appeared before them pressing for the continuation of the farm and the research work which the delegates said had given invaluable help to the agricultural industry of the province.

ALL FACILITIES CUT
The sum of $110,000 will be needed to carry on the agricultural faculty. An amount of $35,000 will have to be cut from other faculties therefore in view of the $145,000 reduction in the total vote. Revenue from arts and science and applied science from about 1,800 students exceeds $200,000, while there is a revenue only of $5,000 a year from the fifty students of agriculture, but members of nineteen delegations (Concluded on Page 2)

Vessel With Fire In Coal Bunker Heads For Port

CROSSED RIVER

It is believed the bandits, after eluding police in the Deroc district, were able to cross to the south side of the Fraser River and reach Chilliwack, a few miles away. It is believed they then stole the car at Chilliwack, which carried them out of that city Monday evening, and a few hours later seized the second automobile from the Abbotsford garage, which they used to reach Vancouver.

NO TRACE FOUND

The alleged Tacoma suspect in connection with the Harrison Lake robbery does not exist, according to Deputy Sheriff C. W. Jones, who is in charge of the search for the bandits in the Tacoma area. A careful check of police files, records and other information sources in the United States city failed to reveal any clue of the suspected man.

Bullets Fly When Detectives Surprise Would-be Robbers

Steel Vest Saves Life of Policeman in Montreal Bank Lobby; Bullet From His Pistol Seriously Wounds Assailant; Five Detectives Round Up Wounded Man and His Two Companions, Saving Cash in Tellers' Cages.

Canadian Press
Montreal, April 29.—A squad of city detectives shot and seriously wounded a would-be bandit in a gun battle in the lobby of an east-end branch of the Bank of Montreal during the lunch hour today and captured the wounded man's two companions.

The wounded one gave his name as Joe Malouff, but the names of the other prisoners were not available.

Malouff fired at Detective LaRoche, but the bullet rebounded from a steel vest the officer was wearing under his coat. The shock caused LaRoche's gun to discharge, Malouff being shot in the shoulder.

Looking for other bank hold-up suspects in connection with the robbery of a branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale last Monday, the detectives were parked outside the Bank of Montreal branch in the east end of the city. Their suspicions aroused by the action of three men hanging about the entrance, they followed them inside. The trio walked (Concluded on Page 2)

Apple Trees Cut Down By Raiders

Oliver, B.C., April 29.—Willful destruction committed at the ranch of J. W. Neill early Sunday morning, when a large number of young apple trees were chopped down and others "ringed" so as to stop growth, was being investigated today. Altogether thirty-seven trees were mutilated or cut down. A block of twenty-five two-year-old apple trees was hacked to the ground while another block of five four-year-old apple trees was ringed.

A knife and chain were the instruments used, police say. Constable D. A. McDonald of the provincial police is investigating.

INSURANCE FOR WORKERS URGED BY LABOR M.P.

Heaps Asks Commons to Pass Resolution in Favor of Plan

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 29.—Immediate establishment of a federal system of insurance against unemployment, sickness and invalidity, was urged on the government this afternoon in the Commons by A. A. Heaps, Labor member for Winnipeg North. A resolution, moved by him, would place the Commons in favor of such a scheme.

State insurance, the Labor member admitted, was no cure for unemployment, it was merely a palliative. The increased use of machinery and the speeding up of industry had tended to diminish the labor factor. This had developed into a "one-sided economic system," with the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few men.

He had known personally, said Mr. Heaps, of hundreds of cases in which men, after trying vainly for long periods to obtain work, had finally been driven to ask for public relief. The second time a man found it easier, the third time he had still less reluctance, and finally the man was practically on a dole. He favored substituting for the method of doing without unemployment, a system of insurance against unemployment.

The government was anxious to promote social legislation along the lines suggested at the earliest possible moment consistent with proper information, Premier R. B. Bennett said. He suggested Mr. Heaps change his resolution, which called for immediate establishment of a federal system of insurance. Mr. Bennett suggested the word "immediate" be struck out, also that it be provided that it be contributory, and further that co-operation of the provinces be one of the provisions.

LONDON JOKE ON CHURCHILL

Liberals and Laborites Invited to Conservative Luncheon Which Is Hoax

Canadian Press
London, April 29.—Political gossipers are talking about another new political party, even newer than Sir Oswald Mosley's, and they are naming Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill in their rumors.

The stories increased today with the announcement the 1900 Club would entertain Mr. Churchill at luncheon May 15 in recognition of his services to the Conservative Party.

It was not until today that somebody discovered a joker in the invitations to the luncheon sent to members of the Liberal and Labor parties. A practical joker apparently got his hands on the invitation forms and sent them broadcast to Liberals and Laborites when they were intended only for Conservatives.

Canadian Press
Hazelton, B.C., April 29.—Fire which broke out here early this morning wiped out a complete block in the business section, causing a loss estimated at $50,000. Ten years ago fire swept over practically the same district.

In today's blaze the Omnica Hotel, which escaped destruction in the last serious fire, was destroyed, but all the guests escaped without injury.

Among the establishments destroyed were the general store of G. W. Dawson, two cafes, two warehouses, a garage and number of other smaller structures. Insurance carried covered approximately half of the loss. The fire was fought by a volunteer brigade.

M.P. Asks About Dismissals From The Civil Service

Canadian Press
Ottawa, April 29.—A further series of questions in respect to retirement of employees from positions in the Department of the Interior has been placed on the order paper of the Commons by E. R. E. Chevrier, Liberal, Ottawa. He asks how many permanent and how many temporary employees have been retired in Ottawa, and outside Ottawa. He also wishes to know the names of the various branches of the Interior Department directly affected by the transfer of the natural resources to the western provinces.

"How many positions in each of these branches were abolished as a result of the transfer?" asks Mr. Chevrier.

Lively Commons Debate On Farm Conditions

House Expects More Forceful Speaking Before Brown Amendment Voted on; Premier Bennett Claims Ministry Has Accomplished Much

Ottawa, April 29.—As the members of the Commons gathered this afternoon they were prepared to hear further forceful expressions of opinion on the economic condition of Canada, particularly the present state of agriculture. The amendment, moved by J. I. Brown, Liberal-Progressive, Leger, Manitoba, which is equivalent to a motion of want of confidence directed against the Bennett government, was listed for continuation of the lively debate staged yesterday, when Mr. Brown scored the ministry's course and Liberals asked Mr. Bennett and his supporters to show what they had achieved to better conditions since they took office August 7, 1930. In his reply yesterday evening Premier Bennett charged Mr. Brown and those who had spoken in similar vein with seeking to exploit depressed conditions for political purposes rather than remedy them.

Takes Day Off to Celebrate; Was Splendid Tenor in His 'Younger Days'

Congratulations are being tendered today to Edward White, Victoria pioneer, on the attainment of his ninetieth birthday. Mr. White seems to have discovered the secret of perpetual youth so vainly sought by the old alchemists, for he goes daily to his office in the Belmont Building and conducts timber transactions with a vigor and shrewdness which might well be envied by many a man half his age. To-day he remained at home to receive the host of greetings and good wishes showered on him by old friends from far and near, his son, Frank White, and his daughter, Mrs. C. E. "After a little wearing, a lovely green voile—an imported dress—lost color so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it any more. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 15¢—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes."

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both dyeing and—dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. ## MISS WHITTON'S VIEWS SCORED BY LABOR HEAD

Tom Moore Takes Issue With Report at Child Welfare Council

Objects to Statement That Liquor Profits Pay For Social Service

Ottawa, Ont., April 22.—An unsentimental expansion of social services by governments and private agencies came in the report of Miss Charlotte Whitton, executive director of the Canadian Council of Child Welfare, presented at the annual meeting yesterday.

Finances for increased social services have been obtained by provincial governments in recent years from profits on liquor sales, it is stated. The money might at any time be cut in half by a change in the law of the United States, for the report sets forth, a great part of the liquor sold in Canada is consumed by Americans.

Training schools for social workers are not sufficiently developed, her report said.

Special interest met the report of Miss Whitton, which also included an exhaustive survey of welfare work conditions in the dominion, and expressed a number of interesting views on how such work might be coordinated.

Opposition to Miss Whitton's statement that Canadian provinces would be obliged to drastically curtail their social and charitable programmes were the United States to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, was voiced by Tom Moore, president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress and a member of the governing board.

Mr. Moore declared it was unfair to say that Canadian social service was dependent on the prohibition situation in the United States, and denied that American tourists who visit Canada come solely for the purpose of drinking. He took issue with Miss Whitton over the expenditure of public money for social work, expressing the view that the funds disbursed annually in the dominion are carefully spent and adequately accounted for.

Again, he opposed the plan of leaving social work in abeyance until college-training executives can be obtained and incorporated his views in an amendment to the report, which carried.

After serving seven years as president of the Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare, Mrs. C. M. Thoburn of Ottawa, retired at the annual meeting yesterday and J. Fred Davey of Ottawa was elected to the vacancy.

Vice-presidents elected for 1931 are Dr. H. E. Young, Victoria, B.C. and F. N. Stapleton, Toronto.

FRENCH WOMAN LAWYER SPEAKS

Gathering at Uplands Home Hears Mile Villier-Duray on Sport

Mile Villier-Duray, distinguished lawyer of Paris, where she is secretary of the Paris Bar Association, and vice-president of the Federation of University Women, was the guest of honor at a delightful reception held by the Women's University Club last evening at the home of Mrs. W. N. Gunning, The Uplands, and at which members of L'Alliance Francaise were also privileged to attend.

"AMAZING DISCOVERY"

An French delegate to the International Congress of University Women's Clubs, which has just completed its deliberations at Wellesley, Mass., Mile Villier-Duray was chosen as the speaker for the evening. She was to speak on "The amazing discovery that other people are as cultured and as interested in the better things of life as oneself."

Speaking with much charm upon her chosen subject, "Sport in Contemporary French Literature," Mile Villier-Duray analyzed in a searching manner the work of Henri de Montherlant, the friend and poet of modern sporting youth, who championed the physical prowess of the Greeks and the Romans, and since on such a journey one makes what she whimsically called "the amazing discovery" that other people are as cultured and as interested in the better things of life as oneself.

France has been slow and conservative in taking up the question of universal sport, the speaker observed. She had many champions in various fields, boxing, tennis, fencing, but now a wave of universal sport for all classes is making itself felt throughout the length and breadth of the country, and educators are beginning to realize that the hours for study may be too long.

A sane and healthy balance between the physical and spiritual powers is advocated by Henri de Montherlant, who brings this point before his readers through a reference to the Angelus ringing in the midst of an exciting game. "This the complete minute, could it but last and spread over one's whole life."

ROSES PRESENTED

The speaker was thanked in a graceful little speech by Mrs. W. H. Godson, and Miss Maxwell on behalf of the University Women's Club, presented the speaker with a bouquet of roses. Miss Patricia Hamilton-Smith, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Percy Barr, introduced the speaker, and welcomed the visiting members of L'Alliance Francaise, on whose behalf, Mrs. H. M. Archibald, president, thanked the University Women's Club and Mrs. Dunning for the gracious privilege of the evening's entertainment.

CANDY SECRETS FROM A LITTLE FRENCH-CANADIAN SWEET SHOP

Down in Quebec there is a quaint sweet shop where you can buy the most delectable home-made candies. Its fair owner, whose name reveals her patrician French ancestry, makes every delectable, old-fashioned sweet with her own hands. The very names suggest old-time goodness—peanut butter fudge, penache, pralines, divinity candy. But one ingredient, common to them all, is as modern as tomorrow. It is Carnation Milk.

Here is what Mrs. de B— says of it: "Carnation Milk is wonderful for making candy. I always use it."

What Mrs. de B— did not say is that there is a very definite reason for the silky-textured, melting-smooth candies which Carnation makes. It is the finer cream particles—broken up by "homogenization" and distributed uniformly all through the milk, so that every drop shares in this creamy fineness of texture.

The same smoothness and rich creaminess which Carnation Milk gives to candies, it gives to all dishes in which it is used. Pure, whole milk evaporated to double richness, it saves on butter and cream; it is always uniform in quality, always dependable. It is protected at the source; Carnation "field men" are constantly busy teaching dairymen the money value of good food, clean water and well-kept barns for their cows, and of the clean hands and clean utensils that keep the milk up to the Carnation standards of purity. Being sterilized, it can be kept without waste. And in results it outdoes even the best of bottled milk.

Here's a recipe for a simple delicious candy. The free Carnation Cook Book has other delightful candy recipes. Send for it—also free Baby Feeding Book, to Carnation Co., Limited, 134 Abbott St., Vancouver, B.C.

Carnation Coconut Cream Candy—2 cups sugar, ¼ tsp. cream of tartar, 1 tbs. butter, ¼ cup of Carnation Milk, ¼ cup water, ¼ tsp. vanilla, 1 cup shredded coconut. Mix sugar, cream of tartar, and Carnation diluted with the water; cook to the soft ball stage. Remove from fire and add butter. When cool add vanilla and beat until creamy. Add coconut and drop from spoon into small balls on a buttered plate, or mold on a buttered plate and mark into squares.

USE THE SAFEGUARDED MILK

Doubly rich in cream, Carnation Milk makes every dish richly delicious. And how it cuts your cream and butter bills! Use this pure, dependable milk for all cooking. Carnation Milk, through the constant activity of Carnation "field men", is safeguarded at the source by clean housing of every herd and clean handling of all the milk. And this protection continues until Carnation Milk reaches you in its hermetically sealed containers. (See recipe above.)

MEXICAN GIRLS UNDERTAKE TO QUELL 'MASHERS'

Feminist Leaders Seek Legislation to Curb Flirtatious Males as in United States

Mexico City—Times Mail Correspondence—Now that a marked degree of success has attended efforts of modern Mexican girls to gain economic recognition, they are giving their attention to the solution of a problem that has long vexed them. This problem is the "masher" and how to curb his activities. Molesters, in the way of ogling, bold expressions of "compliments," and the forcing of unwelcome attentions on unescorted women in public by men of all ages are only too common in Mexican streets, cinemas, theatres and parks. It is not as bad as it used to be in Mexico City, but it is still going strong in the provinces. The fair sex feel they have been good natured for too long a time with "flirts" and that something must be done about this condition.

SEEK LEGISLATION

Feminist leaders are planning to have enacted by state and municipal governments throughout the country legislation against "masHERs," along lines similar to such laws that prevail in the United States. Feminists are convinced that if a law was on the books and vigorously enforced, the activities of flirtatious males would be discouraged, or at least considerably curtailed. The urgent need for such statutes is being brought to the attention of women's clubs and organizations in Mexico City, and in certain of the larger cities of the states. At present, however, a few days behind the bars, would do much to make fellows who use scent, carry canes, and dress in exaggerated style think better of trying to make "conquests" in public, the feminists believe.

Feminism in Mexico is gathering its force to wage war upon the "masHER." A woman or girl of any appearance at all who walks in the streets alone or goes to the movies, the theatre or the park by herself in the day time (doing so after dark is just simply not done by the fair sex in this land) receives much attention from all manner of men. Every male has a look or words for her; many do not stop at looks or words, but try to conquer her favor. This sort of thing is not exclusively a diversion of the "flirt" (young dude), but of men who should know much better, and fellows who are old enough to be the fathers or even the grandfathers of women they molest.

FREE WITH COMPLIMENTS

"Ah, how lovely." "What beautiful eyes." "What a wonderful figure you have, pretty little lady." These, and other similar bits of nonsense, are showered upon the girl who is not shocked, or even a little annoyed, by them. When called upon by a girl to save her from male molestations, smile, and shrug and say:

"This gentleman is just a little playful, senorita. A pretty girl like you should not object to being admired."

Staring boldly at girls and women who are worth a second look is as common as sunshine in Mexico. Practically every man does it. Many of them think nothing of stopping to turn around to continue staring.

A certain amount of flirting in public is tolerated by Mexican custom, and is accepted by women. It is quite all right for a young fellow who takes a fancy to a girl in the streets or elsewhere in public, to follow her home, then hang around her door until she gives some sign as to whether or not she favors him as a sweetheart. If he is successful, he must "play bear"—court his lady from the darkened street, whispering sweet nothings to her as she sits behind the bars of a street window of her home, or as she stands upon the balcony. That is acceptable. But "mashing" in the broad sense of the word, is decidedly not.

OGGLER KNOCKED OUT

Not a few modern Mexican maids, and the police of certain cities, as well, do not intend to wait until "anti-mashing" legislation is enacted. The recent direct action methods executed by a comely girl who loves tennis and other sports, in Guadalajara, this country's "different" city, and the republic's second metropolis, in dealing with a particularly obnoxious "flirt" has become the talk of the land.

A group of "flirts" was loitering at the entrance to a men's club one day, when this young lady came up the street. She was particularly attractive that day in her new spring frock. One of the loafers announced to his fellows that he would kiss the lady. Of course, he was made as to whether he could or could not. As the girl was passing the group, the "flirt" pounced upon her, put an arm around her head, and kissed her full on the lips. Then, the titter of amusement turned to loud laughter—at the expense of the kisser.

"MASHER" JAILED

She who was unwillingly kissed, struck her offender, knocking him flat on his back with a blow that could be heard from several yards. He got up nursing a big black eye. The senorita hastened to the nearest police station and demanded that something be done about this matter. The police captain lost no time in sending the patrol wagon to the scene of the outrage, with instructions to make a passenger of her of the black eye.

The "masHER" was kept in jail for several days and fined 200 pesos (about $100 Canadian) on a charge of assault and battery, when he was hailed before the police judge.

Motor vehicles registrations throughout the world have increased more than 20 per cent during the last five years.

GERMAN AUTHORESS

A few years ago Vicki Baum was an obscure German writer. But it was as the author of one of the Broadway season's outstanding play successes that she was hailed when, as pictured above, she arrived in New York to see for the first time the American dramatization of her novel, "Grand Hotel." She worked as a chambermaid in a Berlin hotel to gather material for the story.

WOMAN TO PAY HEAVY DAMAGES

Supreme Court Orders Vancouver Autoist to Pay $8,181 to Plaintiffs Vancouver, April 29.—Finding Mrs. Rita Fern Mascoe, West Tenth, to blame for an automobile collision at Broadway and Collingwood Street on May 21, 1929, Mr. Justice Murphy in Supreme Court ordered her to pay $8,181 damages to six plaintiffs.

Harry W. Brown, farmer, of Cloverdale, was awarded $2,231; his wife, Florence Alpha Brown, who was seriously injured, $5,000; his brother, John J. Brown, farmer, of Surrey Centre, $250; the latter's wife, Melina Mary Brown, $200; Christopher E. Webb, engineer, Collingwood Street, $300, and his wife, Frances Webb, $300.

Driving west on Broadway, Mrs. Mascoe ran into the automobile of Harry W. Brown who was proceeding north on Collingwood. With the exception of Mrs. Webb, the other plaintiffs were passengers in Harry W. Brown's car. Claims for expenses incurred in connection with their wives' injuries, were made by the three husbands. In addition, Harry W. Brown was allowed $431 for damage to his car.

A cross-action against Harry W. Brown by Mrs. Mascoe was dismissed.

Lunch Dish

Stimulating is the individual luncheon casserole that comes in containing a slice of asparagus, a deep fat, topped by a poached egg and dressed up with cheese sauce and a sprig of parsley.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MRS. MERZ ELDER

Mrs. Elder will be glad to answer any questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

ADDITIONAL FOODS SHOULD BE OLD ACQUAINTANCES AT ONE YEAR

I talk so much about food that I feel led to read what you have to say about it. Babies are fed with such uniformity from one end of the country to the other, schedules are so similar that after years and years of it, I naturally decide that all the mothers know just what I know. Evidently that is a most erroneous conclusion, for I am swamped with letters saying, "I want to feed my baby, but what and when?" just as if it had never been mentioned before.

EXTRA FOODS LIMITED

A constant reader was not concerned about the limited diet of her six-month-old baby until she read a recent article in the paper about it. "After reading one of your articles on the diet of the six-month-old baby I have begun to wonder if we are under-feeding our son," she writes. "He weighs sixteen pounds, sits up in wobbly fashion and is a good baby. I feed him on the three-hour schedule, five and one-half ounces of milk, one and one-half ounces of barley water, a little lime water and honey in each bottle. Occasionally he gets small amounts of baked custard, baked potato, carrots or spinach water, and hard yolk of egg. I do not feed these regularly, but just when he is at the cable with us. He does get orange juice regularly. I tried the larger formula and the four-hour schedule and it does not seem to work. He refused more than seven ounces and vomited up the rest. I mean that he cannot digest this larger amount."

formula with mine, you will see the real difference. You give six feedings, consisting for the whole day of twenty-seven and one-half ounces of milk, seven and one-half ounces of barley water, no measured amount of lime water or sugar. I suggested five feedings daily, totalling thirty ounces of milk, ten of water (no great increase), and four and one-half level tablespoons of sugar (some syrup or molasses or cane sugar, but not honey) and boiling the milk instead of using lime water. I imagine you did everything but boil the milk, and that is probably the cause of the spitting up. Or the increased amount of sugar may have been responsible.

Keep to the four-hour schedule. Use thirty ounces of boiled milk, ten or less of water and two level tablespoons of any one of the above sugars. Put this into five bottles. Offer one or more teaspoonsful of gruel at 10 and 6 o'clock. Offer teaspoonsful of steamed vegetable and a small amount of hard egg yolk at 2 o'clock. One hour before any feeding give two ounces or more of orange juice daily. Our feeding leaflet called "Diet From Two to Twelve Months" covers every detail of these additional feedings and explains the process at length. You may secure this leaflet by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Unless additional foods are started at four months in small amounts and increased gradually, and unless we offer them daily as regular parts of the baby's diet, we cannot expect the baby when a year old to immediately take all the food proper for his age and development.

The match, the second in a three-game series was fast throughout with Victoria having the edge in both halves. In the series Victoria took the first match 2 to 1. Another Obstacle Cleared Away For Holding of Sharkey-Carnera Battle

Madison Square Garden May Take Legal Action to Prevent Mix June 10

New York, April 28.—Apparently warned by last year's horrible example—the fiasco that started out to be a heavyweight championship fight between Max Baer and Jack Sharkey, the New York State Athletic Commission has decided to wait and see before awarding championship recognition to the meeting of Sharkey and Primo Carnera at Rikers Field, June 10.

Unless the weather or the threatened suit of the Madison Square Garden Corporation cause trouble, the fifteen-round bout is all set for June 10. The commission yesterday refused permission for that. But, Chairman James A. Farley explained, no request for title recognition had been received. He indicated that part of the question might be taken up at a later date.

Brushing Up Sports . . . . . By Laufer

BOBBY JONES ON GOLF

This idea of hitting through the ball, which we all try to follow, is one of the most important things in the game, and a fair understanding of the motion is necessary for anyone who hopes to play even decent golf. Too many of us even the better players, too frequently yield to the impulse to hit merely at the ball, especially when we are attempting to give it a particularly resounding thump. Hard hitting or tense hitting, strange to state, discourages rather than assists a relaxed follow-through.

I don't know if the expression, "hitting through the ball" is an entirely happy one, for it seems to me that there is danger in it. It is so easy to advise hitting through the ball and convey thereby the idea that the effort of the stroke must be continued on through to the finish. I have seen a few players who evidently had some such idea, and it left them afraid to let go lest they should lose a hold upon the club, and not be able to carry it on over their shoulders. Of course that is not the kind of swing we should like to see. It has a lot to do with pushing and too little hitting.

PURPOSE OF THE FOLLOW-THROUGH

One does not, or ought not, have to think about carrying the club on to a graceful finish. It will pass on to that point of its own momentum unless something is done to prevent it. I remember once, during that stage of my golfing study when I was looking around for a good model of iron play upon which I could hang my own style, when I picked Tommy Armour and Abe Mitchell and set out to copy them. Neither man has a full finish, although each concludes in a graceful pose, and I struck by the finish because it was the most obvious feature, began at once to attempt to cut off my own swing immediately after striking the ball. I thought this would give me a greater firmness. I very soon had to give up working along these lines because I found that my wrists did not operate in the same way and that it was impossible to chop off my swing without ruining it entirely. But I also discovered that Armour and Mitchell have short finishes not because they consciously stop the club but because, with their manner of hitting, their wrists are so placed that even perfect relaxation does not permit it to go further. I found that to be a very interesting point but the explanation of it is entirely another story.

But there is this lesson in these observations, namely that the follow-through or more properly the finish is not important except as an indication of what has gone before. No one could, I think, that there is only one set of motions which must be exactly reproduced in order to hit a golf ball correctly. A number of varying styles have been found to be equally effective. But it is important that the club be allowed to pass freely onward after the ball has been dispatched; that the muscles of the body should relax so that the whole business may flow on to its conclusion.

A PUTTING EXAMPLE

I think that perhaps it is in putting that this can be most easily seen. There are two kinds of mistakes that the player can make in his putting stroke. He can either too much about keeping his club on the line and above the ball, or he can grip the club too tightly and snap the ball too hurriedly. In neither case, he is securing his putter freely, controlling it up to the point of impact with the ball and there-

Argentine Pros Will Compete In British Tourneys

Southampton, Eng., April 28.—Argentina's four leading golfers—Jose Jurbe, Tomasos Gesta, Marco Gjurjo and Hector Freccero—arrived yesterday on the liner Arlanza to compete in the British open championship in June and the leading professional tournaments. They traveled with the Prince of Wales on the Arlanza, Jurado, the Argentine open champion, giving the Prince several lessons aboard ship.

Youngstown, O., April 28.—James R. ("Jimmy") McFarlane, sixty-six, one of the organizers of the American League, former owner of the Boston Red Sox, and former manager of the St. Louis and Washington American League clubs, died today after a long illness.

Bob Kruse Wins Over Bonnie Muir

Senior Basketball Champions of Canada Named This Evening

St. Catharines Grads, Eastern Champions, Will Meet University of British Columbia Five in Second Game of Dominion Finals; Grads Won First Game by 18 to 17; Hal Collins, Star Guard of Easterns, Arrives for Second Game; Varsity Confident.

Vancouver, B.C., April 29.—The dominion basketball championship will be won this evening at the Vancouver Arena. St. Catharines Grads, eastern champions, will go into the fray with a lone point lead over University of British Columbia, champions of western Canada. One point isn't very much in a basketball sense, but with the teams playing as cautiously as they did Monday night in the opening game, it may loom large.

St. Kitts won the opener 18 to 17, mainly because few of their efforts to cage the ball in the Varsity basket went for naught. They went for one or two points. The students, on the other hand, dominated the floor play, had more shots on basket, but sank less.

Dr. Garnet Montgomery, coach of the college team, figures his boys should be able to shoot with more accuracy this evening. It's not very often that lanky Bob Osborne, star guard of the college hoopers, plays his way through a whole game without finding the basket. Yet that's what Robert did Monday night.

EXPECTS BUMPER HOUSE. Best sale is brisk and officials are looking to a near capacity crowd for tonight. There were very close to 4,000 people in the historic building for the opening contest of this series, and there should be at least a couple of thousand more to-night.

Hal Collins, flashy guard of the Grads' team, arrived here Tuesday from the east. Collins was delayed by exams, and was to have flown here in order to play in the first game. It was impossible for him to get a plane over the mountains, however.

Collins is rated as a real star for the easterners and the tall boy should be able to put quite a bit more pep into St. Kitts to-night.

"Y" PREPARES FOR BIG SHOW

Plans Completed For Big Event in Gymnasium Friday and Saturday

With the Y.M.C.A. annual show set for Friday and Saturday evening, the committee in charge of the event has completed the programme and promises those who attend it a good evening's entertainment.

Under the direction of the different officers at the association, the ladies taking part in the show have been developed into good troupe. Complicated calisthenics will be performed by the junior school class, while the junior unemployed will specialize in work with several good novelty turns. The preps will be seen in several exceptional mass marches.

Of outstanding interest promises to be the exhibition of the junior leaders, who will perform on the spring board, diving over obstacles, through hoops and generally showing their skill on this piece of apparatus.

ROMAN LADDER PYRAMIDS. Roman ladder pyramids will be "built" by the intermediate employed. Senior leaders will also use the spring board, but will combine with it the long horse in their display.

On Saturday night the Y.M.C.A. boys' band will rally the people to the show with the fanfare of music in the street outside the association. Individual performances by tumbler will be rendered during the performances.

LIFE WASN'T WORTH LIVING

Lonely Widow's Fits of Depression

NOW CHEERFUL

Thanks to Kruschen

A widow—70 years of age—living alone in the "back of beyond"—rheumatism in her hands and knees. Is there any wonder that she became depressed to the point of desperation? Fortunately she tried the one remedy that could put her right—Kruschen Salts.

"I thought I would send a few particulars of the benefit I have received from taking Kruschen Salts for about two years. I am a widow 70 years of age. Naturally, my joints were very stiff, and I had rheumatism in my hands and knees. I have very little rheumatism now. In fact, very often none at all, and my joints are much more supple. But, worst of all, I used to get fearful fits of depression—(I live alone in a lonely place)—so much so that I was afraid to walk by the river which runs close to my house, unless I should be tempted to jump in and end all. I am pleased to tell you I never have those feelings now. In fact, anyone would look upon me as a most cheerful companion."

Mrs. E. A. C.

The commonest cause of depression is partial constipation—an insidious complaint, because the sufferer is seldom aware of it. It means the gradual accumulation of body poisons which dull the mind, damp the spirits, sap the nervous strength and lower the whole vitality.

Kruschen Salts make constipation impossible. They help the liver and kidneys to perform their natural duties in a natural way; they clear away gently, but completely, all poisonous waste matter, and ensure an uncontaminated blood-stream. Therefore, if you keep to Kruschen, you need never know the meaning of melancholy; never feel "nervy" or depressed.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

GOVERNMENT GETS BENEFIT OF BEER CUT

Liquor Board Earnings Will Increase as Consumer Pays Same Price

Other Canadian Beer May Be Offered For Sale Early Next Month

The Liquor Control Board has been successful in its efforts to secure a reduction in the price of beer, but the reduction will not be directly passed on to beer consumers, according to a government announcement made yesterday.

The new price would permit a reduction of fifteen cents a dozen in bottled beer. The reduction on both bottled and draught beer is estimated to represent an additional $320,000 saving to the Liquor Board.

Draught-beer price to the board will be reduced from $18.50 to $17 a barrel. Bottled beer will be reduced from $16.50 to $15.25 a barrel of ten dozen pints.

It is also reported the Liquor Control Board is investigating the importation of other Canadian beers and it may be available for the public early next month. With freight and other charges from outside points added it is reported the outside beer will cost more than British Columbia beer, although early reports were that eastern brewers had made offers which would permit the Liquor Control Board to offer their product for sale at the same price as the home product.

Charlie Chaplin A-hunting With Duke Holds Villagers Wondering With Admiration

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London—Charlie Chaplin had a glorious day out with the Duke of Westminster's hounds by wooded hill and dale, round and round about the picturesque little village of Normandy.

A couple of hours led the duke's little party a fine chase of rather more than three hours, but both managed to make good their escape into the depths of the Forest d'Arques. It was a very gorgeous Charlie Chaplin who mounted his horse at about midday at the little village of Croixdalle, to which the duke brought his half-dozen guests by motor-car from his chateau at Saint Saens.

The dapper comedian wore a blue hunting cap and red coat—borrowed from his host and much too big for him—khaki riding breeches and wonderful glistening brown boots. The whole village turned out to gaze at Charlie—for he is Charlie ("Little Charlie") in France—in his new role, and never perhaps did a hunting man win such admiration.

The first hour was discovered quite near Croixdalle, and he led the field off at a fine swinging pace. After about an hour's run he was lost, but another was picked up, and played hide-and-seek with the party until nearly 4 o'clock. Then he, too, vanished. The hunt went on until night-fall.

"Have I had a good time?" laughed Charlie, at the end of the day. "It was gorgeous. I can hardly move. I think my spine would be in two. I have never been so tired in all my life. If I really lie down I am certain that, like the horse in 'Pickwick,' I should never rise again. I had no time to worry about boots. I was too busy with my horse. You see, I have never hunted before. But it does seem a complicated way of trying to get a bit of wild pork!"

STOWED AWAY AS "CASE OF HATS"

Not particularly de luxe quarters—yet Louis Chianese, twenty-year-old French lad, wanted to go places and didn't have the fare. Here you see him demonstrating, aboard the liner Lafayette, how he tried to cross the Atlantic disguised as a shipment of hats. Two days of imitating a mummy proved slightly cramping to his style and his body as well; also the meals of milk chocolate and tepid water grew wearisome. The youth had brought a gun and a couple of blank cartridges to attract attention in case he found himself suffocating. This strange SOS brought aid and the stowaway made the rest of the trip to New York under more comfortable circumstances. However, he was turned right around and sent back.

Pender Island

For the third time in the last month the local football team was matched with an outside line-up on Saturday, the game being played on the local field against a junior team from Ganges. The visiting boys gave a very fine exhibition of team play. During the first half the local team showed ability and appeared to be breaking fairly even, but displayed signs of fatigue shortly before the whistle blew; the score then being 4-2 in favor of Ganges. In the second half the playing persisted near the local goal and the visiting boys showed considerable advantage in their youth as compared with the local men, some of whom were members of the team of twenty years ago, but who still can play a very creditable game. Just prior to the final whistle Ganges scored their seventh goal. The final score was Ganges 7, Pender 2.

After the game refreshments were served in Hope Hall, many visitors and members of the Galleons team, who witnessed the match, also enjoying the tea.

The local men represented on the team were as follows: J. Bradley (captain), G. Grimmer, Bill Falconer, W. Bowerman, Art Bowerman, Leslie Bowerman, L. Auchterlonie, R. Auchterlonie, H. de Burgh, H. Spence and C. Bruckett, goal J. B. Bridge was referee.

WHERE PLANE'S 6,000-FOOT DRIVE ENDED

A pilotless plane, plunging downward from a height of 6,000 feet, slashed through the roof of a Washington house, leaving the gaping hole shown here. When the plane, which had been flying over the city, was seen descending before a crowd of onlookers at Bolling Field, test its wings in coming out of a power dive at its high altitude, Howard saved his life by a parachute jump.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES

In computing the number of words in an advertisement, estimate groups of three or less figures as one word. Dollar marks and all abbreviations count as one word.

In estimating the number of lines in an advertisement, count five words for the first two lines and seven words for each line thereafter. This is not an absolute guide to the number of lines, much depending on the length of the individual words.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one insertion. Any claim for rebate on account of errors or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

Advertisers who desire to have replies addressed to a box at the Times office and forwarded to their private address, a charge of 10c is made for this service.

Subscribers wishing their addresses changed should notify this office, as well as the carrier. If your Times is missing, phone E4176 before 8 a.m. and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

CUTE LITTLE PLACE

Located in Fairfield and only a five-room bungalow, with full basement, furnace and garage, but so very different from the ordinary type house, that it is a real little place, with both porches front and rear placed in, and the living-room just a dream with its large open fireplace and built-in bookcases. The whole house is in perfect condition throughout and the garden well, you must just see it, that's all,
for no words can describe the rockeries, arbors and shrubs that have been so artistically arranged and which make this little place such a haven for an elderly couple or a dream house for a bride.

A Shoemaker's Invention

A shoemaker knows about leather and shoes, but we should hardly expect him to be an expert in the field of electricity.

UNCLE RAY

William Sturgeon (who lived a century ago) was more than a shoemaker. He kept his shop in Woolwich,
England, making
and repairing
shoes for a living;
but his mind was active in another direction. He was interested in the magic force known
as electricity.During his spare time, Sturgeon studied all the books he could find about electricity. He tin-
tered with batteries and wires, and tested electric currents.In the course of his tests, Sturgeon learned that a current passing through a wire would attract metal, under certain conditions; and he decided to try to make an electric magnet. Before his day, people knew about common magnets, but the "electromagnet" was unknown.After bending an iron rod in the shape of a horseshoe, he "wound" it, and then wrapped around it eighteen turns of copper wire. Each end of the wire was placed in a cup of mercury. Nearby he placed a wire battery. When the battery was wired to the mercury cups, a current flowed through the copper wire. The result was magnetic power, far stronger than any natural magnet!Sturgeon made an electric magnet weighing seven ounces, and with this magnet managed to lift a weight of Three-foot magnet lifting two-ton iron "spool" nine pounds. The event took place in the year 1825.

At a later time the shoemaker inventor made a large horseshoe electric magnet which lifted 1,356 pounds.The work of Sturgeon led to modern electromagnets, which are widely used in lifting girders, tubes, steel ingots, trap iron and the like. A modern operating crane with an electric magnet at the end of it has unloaded 100,000 pounds of pig iron in two hours and five minutes.One huge electric magnet weighs almost 6,000 pounds, and can lift a load of iron weighing thirty tons.
When the current is shut off, the load is dropped.

Your FLOWER GARDEN

Careful Planning Necessary to Choose Proper Site for Flower GardenBy D. VICTOR LUMSDEN
A prominent physician in Washington, D.C., urges gardening as a healthful form of exercise for those engaged in sedentary work.Spring is a good time to start to enlarge a flower garden—whether you are sowing or in perfect health. Seeds of annuals sown as soon as the ground warms will repay a thousandfold for the labor of sowing and cultivating.All through the summer the developing plants will give a bright touch of color to the home grounds, and will also serve to keep living-rooms and porches supplied with cut flowers.Look out of your living-room window and see if you can not find an area of soil or lawn which could be made more beautiful by planting ormay be used for additional seclusion.
In establishing a garden close to the house one must select the soil is. Fortunately many ornamental plants are not exacting as to soil provided they have good drainage and enough organic material (such as manure, peat or decayed leaves) to supply substance for plant growth.Most flowering plants require sunlight for sturdy growth of stem and leaf and an abundance of flowers. If you must contend with shade in your garden, select plants that will succeed in shady places.DON'T COMPETE WITH TREES Do not, however, try to grow flowering plants directly under the spread of a tree which produces a dense shade. Not only will the plants have to compete with the tree for sunlight but it is safe to assume that at times the roots of the tree will demand all of the moisture and the food available.By all means draw a plan of your proposed garden before you actually start gardening. It is far easier to change a flower bed, walk or sundial by erasing a few lines than it is to do this after part of the garden is already developed.As a matter of fact you can carry on the landscape development of your entire property most efficiently only if you have a plan worked out which shows just what is to be done.If you wish you can develop one small part of your property each year as your time and money allow, but have your completed plan before you start.

OUR MAIL BAG

SOCCER CONDITIONS

To the Sports Editor:—Kindly allow me a little space in your valuable paper to answer Mr. Smythe's letter.If Mr. Smythe is a young man, will he please take up refereeing, as we need men like him for the job. If he is too old for that then perhaps with his knowledge of the game he would become one of the governing body, the L.F.A. body. The sooner he gets into it the better, for I can assure him that any one of those gentlemen would willingly step down for anyone who could do better. He reminds me of the side line referees; they criticize their heads off, but when asked if they will referee they quickly tell you they wouldn't.Does he know that ninety per cent of the players do not know the fine points of the game? Does he know that ninety-five per cent of the spectators do not know the game? I'm not speaking from hearsay but from an examination of the situation.He says the referees ought to study the game more. I can assure Mr.
Smythe that all the local referees know the rules. They all have to pass a theoretical examination before they take the field test. If a player makes a mistake hardly any notice is taken of it, but should a referee make one, then everyone is up in the air. You've got to understand that we are only amateur referees. Did he read that which I sent him? I might say that many of us have passed our exam by official new law was passed in which a player could score direct from a corner kick?The referee allowed the player taking the kick, to dribble the ball along the goal line and then shoot for goal. This happened in the First Division in the Old Country. Of course the point had to be settled after the game by official decision, yet the player who caused the trouble met me a few days after the game, shook my hand and apologized, telling me I was right, only he was excited during the game and did not realize what he was saying. Now, I am not the only referee who has gone through this, but each and all of us have experienced this same thing.Does Mr. Smythe know that a number of players will tell him the supporters are to blame for a lot of their trouble by getting excited and telling

Peter Verigin Mausoleum Partly Destroyed By Fanatic

Above is the famous tomb of the former Doukhobov leader, Peter Verigin, overlooking the town of Brilliant, B.C., which was partly demolished by a charge of dynamite thought to have been placed in the portico by fanatical Sons of Freedom when the almost constant guard relaxed its vigilance early last Friday morning.
The doors of peace and sheaf of wheat above the two columns were shattered by the blast.DAILY HEALTH SERVICE HYGIENE OF CHILDBIRTHMother Must Provide in Her Diet Sufficient Food to Care for Baby's Growth as Well as Herself.
By DR. MORRIS FISHERThe building materials for the prospective child can be made through the body of the mother. Therefore, the mother must provide in her diet the food substances necessary to build the child, and at the same time to maintain her own body in a fair state of health.If the growing child does not secure the nutrition that it needs through the food taken by the mother, it will take these materials from the body of the mother. Thus it is that the women who are undergoing the process of childbirth are sometimes undernourished. For this reason also the old epigram, "For every child a tooth!" If the mothers eat properly, she is not likely to have trouble with her teeth, nor is she likely herself to become undernourished.The proper diet contains proteins, carbohydrates, fats, mineral salts and vitamins. During the period when a woman is expected to undergo childbirth, she needs extra amounts of minerals and vitamins.As has been repeatedly emphasized in these columns, the foods containing these substances to best advantage are milk, whole grain cereals, leafy green vegetables, eggs and fruit.If the prospective mother will make certain that her diet contains at least two leafy green vegetables every day and a quart of milk, she will be quite certain of having a sufficient amount of calcium to build bones and to maintain teeth. It is not necessary that the quart of milk be taken as yellow milk. It can be used in combination with cereals, soups, custards, puddings or in the form of butter milk, cottage cheese or as milk that is powdered or evaporated.The whole grains are especially valuable because of their mineral and vitamin content and the leafy green vegetables contain salts and most of the vitamins (except vitamin D). In order to provide adequate amounts of vitamin D, the mother should probably take cod-liver oil or viosterol.In most places in this country she will not get sufficient sunlight under ordinary living conditions, and it will be necessary to get the vitamin D through the substances that have been mentioned. If her diet seems to be deficient in any of the other vitamins because she is unable to take the foods that have been mentioned, the physician may be able to prescribe concentrates of vitamin A and of vitamin B, which are now available. Vitamin C is best had in fresh fruits, particularly citrus fruits.The prospective mother does not need any extra salt. What she gets through usual seasoning of food is probably sufficient. It is important, of course, that the food taken in be properly digested and assimilated. It is not necessary to eat any food that upsets the digestion or that causes a feeling of nausea. The essential substances are to be found in a wide variety of foods and a choice should be made among those that seem to meet the conditions best.Because there is a tendency to putting on weight, due to the lack of exercise, over-eating should be avoided.
The average woman should not gain more than twenty pounds during the entire period.There is no evidence that smoking in moderation is harmful to the mother or to the child. Excessive use of alcohol or tobacco may be harmful to both.

It is an air flier, and William R. Stout, inventor, at the controls, hopes this tiny new plane will have a vogue like the original flier of the highways. Foot controls are similar to those in the Model T Ford, the general arrangement is like a coupe and the propeller pushes from behind. Designed to make the car driver feel at home in the air, it was shown at the Detroit air show.

POON BONDSMEN ASK COURT TO RELIEVE THEM

Chinese Newspaper Man, Now on $4,000 Bail, Will Have to Surrender Liberty

Harold Poon of the Chinese New Republic daily newspaper, who has been at liberty on $4,000 bail since March 3 last to await his trial before a judge and jury, will be asked to surrender his liberty to give up his freedom for the rest of the pre-trial period.

Herbert Lee and Matthew G. Bong, who are bondsmen providing for Poon's release, appeared before Judge Lampman to-day, and asked that the court relieve them of their bond as regards Poon.

The judge said that on an amended affidavit he would sign an order relieving them, as a result of which Poon will have to surrender himself, failing the appearance of a new bondsmen.

Poon is charged with the murder of Judge Lampman to-day, and asked that the court relieve them of their bond as regards Poon.

Remodeling of premises in the Fairfield Block, at the northeast corner of Douglas and Cormorant streets, will be commenced immediately for occupation by the Canadian Bank of Commerce as a branch banking establishment.

William F. Gardiner, Vancouver architect, has been in the city conferring with James A. Bennett, building superintendent for the Royal Trust Company, regarding the building of a new branch of the bank.

Formerly occupied by the Royal Bank of Canada, the Douglas Street branch of which is now established in new quarters on the opposite corner of the corner ground floor premises of the Fairfield Block will be completely reconstructed for branch bank purposes by the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Safety deposit vaults of reinforced concrete will be constructed and new floors will be laid throughout. The building will be a three-story structure of thirty-five feet on Douglas Street and a depth of forty feet, with new beams and pillars and will be finished with a modern interior.

The bank will contain the manager's and assistant manager's offices and tellers' cages, in addition to public space.

The alterations will be commenced as soon as the final details have been completed.

Out Of Teeth, Out Of A Job, Now He Smiles

One of the Unemployed Found the Need of a Set of False Teeth Was Losing Him Work So He Wrote a Letter to the Paper and Solved Problem; Then There Was the Case of the Poor Pony.

If you haven't a good set of teeth so you can face the world with a smile, it is a handicap in the battle of life, according to one of the unemployed who dropped into The Times editorial rooms the other day.

He wanted the following letter to appear under "Other People's Views": "I am one of the many unemployed in Victoria this winter. Unfortunately, it became necessary to remove all my teeth recently. Now I find my present condition a serious disadvantage in re-establishing me in my old occupation. Employers are prejudiced regarding my appearance, and no doubt feel that I am at present unable to partake of the necessary nourishment to carry on efficiently."

If any dentist or private party will help me to procure artificial teeth, I will willingly repay when I am financially able."

Eighteen hours after the appeal was published the letter-writer was sitting in a dentist's chair being measured for the new set of molars so that he could face the world with a smile in a more confident search for work.

POOR LITTLE PONY
Which shows the power of a letter to the editor. Some time ago Port Alberni, B.C., was the scene of a tragedy. There was a little pony in the pound and no one claimed it. The fact was published in Victoria and Vancouver newspapers.

If anyone did not give it a home it would have to be shot. Before the week was over Port Alberni officials were appealing for help. The telegrams and letters from youngsters seeking the pony and parents waiting for their children swamped the Victoria post office.

"The number in one week was more than the whole total of the post office had received to that point in its history," said a Port Alberni official.

MUSIC FESTIVAL NOTES
The programmes for the Victoria Musical Festival, which will commence next Tuesday, will be ready for distribution by Monday, if not earlier. They will consist of about fifty pages and 2,300 have been ordered.

A group of ten Victoria College students have volunteered as supervisors and assistants to the adjudicators of the festival.

E. Holloway and Miss Jessie Smith are official accompanists of the entrants this year.

Mayor Anson will deliver an address of welcome to the contestants at a 9 o'clock Tuesday evening in the First United Church. This church will be the scene of all the evening competitions.

The dancing classes at the Victoria High School, Friday and Saturday afternoons, caused much enthusiasm among school children, who constitute the greater part of the entry. There are classes for adults as well. The dancing has been the most popular feature and draws large crowds.

The three Old Country adjudicators—Harold Samuel, Sir Hugh Robertson and E. Holloway—will complete their Winnipeg week Friday and will leave the same evening for Victoria. They are expected here Sunday or Monday.

One of the most pleasing things about the festival is the interest which previous adjudicators and certain United States musicians take in its activities. Several of them have donated cups and medals for competition and submitted helpful advice.

Professor Warren Allen, 1929 piano adjudicator, has given a medal for senior piano. Peter Meremblum, very well known in Seattle as a violinist and a frequent performer over radio, has given a medal for intermediate violin. From Rex Underwood, 1929 adjudicator of strings, has come a medal for senior violin. A former Victorian, Francis Armstrong, now a noted concert violinist and teacher at the University of Washington, has given a medal for the open violin class. Kola Levenne, Seattle cellist and KOMO artist, has presented the committee with a cup for instrumental trio. Victoria's festival has not been forgotten by Carl Denton, Portland, who was an adjudicator in the first two festivals of 1927 and 1928. A cup for string quartets has been donated by him.

One of the most prominent adjudicators last year, David Campbell, also of Portland, has sent a medal for original compositions and has helped a great deal in getting entries for this event.

Tells Interesting Geological Facts Of Island to Club
Tracing the different ages through which Vancouver Island has passed since the earliest times, by means of studying various rock formations, Rev. Robert Connell interested members of the Victoria Board Table Club at its dinner in the Empress Hotel yesterday evening.

He mentioned the different reports of geologists, particularly in the Sooke district, and stated, in his opinion, the evidence was not sufficient to warrant commercial development of the island. The speaker traced other phases of the geological history of the island, and mentioned the fact that many interesting features of the island, particularly the Victoria Playing Fields Association, also addressed the gathering, over which Dr. Douglas W. Graham presided.

C.P.R. OFFICE STAFFS SHARE REDUCED WORK

Statement Issued By Beatty Says Officers Accepting 10 Per Cent Cut in Salaries

Canadian Press
Montreal, April 28.—The marked decrease in passenger and freight earnings has compelled the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to reduce the salaries of its officers and employees, according to an announcement made here to-day by E. W. Beatty, president of the company.

Mr. Beatty's statement follows: "To meet the continued falling-off in earnings account through decreased traffic, further reductions in operating expenses have become necessary. This involves either a decrease in staff or a reduction in working hours in offices as had already been undertaken by shop forces, train service employees and others. A reduction in staff would necessarily involve a considerable number of employees being out of the service, thereby adding to the unemployment situation. The office employees themselves, by a very large majority, have expressed a preference for the sharing of the employment by taking some time off duty without pay. It has, therefore, been arranged that, effective May 1, throughout the general offices, employees will lay off three days a month without pay, which is equivalent to approximately ten per cent, and that effective from the same date, all officers and members of supervisory staffs will, for the time being, accept a reduction of ten per cent in their salaries."

"The dividend policy of the company will be considered by the directors at their next meeting."

CONVENTION SEASON OPENS HERE MAY 16

Washington and Oregon Hotel Associations to Meet in Victoria

Victoria's summer convention season will be started off this year on May 16, with the arrival of the combined Washington State Hotel Association and the Oregon State Hotel Association.

After holding the first day's session of the convention on May 16, in Seattle, the delegates numbering more than 150, will cross to Victoria on the Canadian National midnight boat, for the formalities of their second day's gathering in Victoria.

Final arrangements for the Victoria sessions of the convention were completed here to-day by Stephen Jones, chairman of the Victoria and British Columbia committees.

The delegates will be welcomed at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel, when the speakers will be Mayor Anson, R. W. Mayhew, president of the Chamber of Commerce; David Leeming, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau; and Stephen Jones, who will preside.

H. F. Matthews, head of the C.P.R. hotel system, will come to the Coast to take part in the convention. There will also be a number of distinguished guests from other centres.

These two hotel organizations are among the most important travel bodies in Western America and control the flow of an enormous amount of passenger traffic.

The convention in Seattle and Victoria is to plan for the summer tourist season on the Coast.

The convention's golf tournament will be staged in Victoria on the O.C. golf course on the Saturday morning. There will be sightseeing drives so that the visitors may see the best of the Victoria and nearby districts.

Dykeman, health centre, Saint John, N.B., child welfare Mrs. W. R. Lang, Toronto, legislation Mrs. W. Mutch, Rocky Point, P.E.I. (east), and Mrs. B. F. Fadden, Upper Sumas, B.C. Canadian industries; and Mrs. T. A. Cohoe, Pilot Mound, Man., League of Nations.

Local "Y" Staff Will Take Part In Conference
To attend the Y.M.C.A. staff conference at the lower mainland, Vancouver Island, W. S. Maguire, P. V. Fivian, Shoemaker and possibly Archie McKinnon will leave Victoria on Saturday evening for Vancouver, where the gathering will be held in the Grand Hotel on Sunday and Monday.

Dr. G. G. G. of Vancouver, president of the National Council, will be the featured speaker at the conference. Before speaking in Vancouver, Mr. Davis will visit Victoria, arriving here to-morrow and staying over till Friday night.

A Great Comfort in Hot Weather!

Connect the Norgé to an electric wall-plug in your kitchen and see what an enormous amount of pleasure you get in having food kept fresh, pure, and appetizingly cool. The scope of your summer menus will be trebled overnight. Of as great importance to you is the fact that Norgé prices are lower than what standard electric refrigerators have ever been sold for in the past.

Germany Prepares To Cut Import Duty On Wheat

With May 1 delivery day only a few hours ahead, when the May option, the chief one of the year, becomes cash, the grain markets were unexpectedly quiet to-day and ignored the crash in the stock market.

Weather report to-day showed Saskatchewan and Alberta fair to-day and Thursday with not much change in temperature; Manitoba, fair to-day and Thursday, somewhat warmer again on Thursday.

Paris, April 29.—The import duty on rye has been increased to 25 francs per 100 kilos. This compares with 21 francs previously and equals 25 cents a bushel at the present rate of exchange.

Broomhall report from Europe to-day says that after a cold spring the weather has now turned warm and bright so that seeding of spring grains is now active.

Winnipeg, April 29.—Newspaper item from Montreal to-day says 30,000,000 bushels of grain has been sold to go out of Montreal in the next four weeks and there will be 50 tramp steamers loading in addition to the regular tonnage.

Berlin, April 29.—A reduction of about 50 cents a bushel in duty on wheat will be decreed by the cabinet this week.

Stocks of domestic wheat and rye have reached a low level, so the government believes Germany can absorb about 20,000,000 bushels of cheap foreign wheat, without endangering the nation's agriculture.

"Traders believe that dry weather conditions in the northwest and the constructive character of the European news will be for more attention now that there is a pause in the liquidation." The Journal of Commerce to-day says.

"Liverpool wheat is working into a better position relative to our market and further improvement along this line will add materially to bullish sentiment."

"There is still a large open interest in May corn."

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, April 29.—Wheat: The wheat market was an erratic affair to-day with a number of varying factors playing their part in turn. At the outset fractional gains were scored on the strong cables which were firmer than last. Early reports indicated a very limited export business and wheat stocks showed a very weak tone, while prices started to fall away with local liquidation of scattered lots.

Expectation of a substantial decrease in German import wheat duties and the recovery in the Argentine exchange rate caused some buying. Further selling from local stock futures lower to show a decline of 1/2 to 1 cent, but at this stage the market looked to be well liquidated and in addition a fair export business came in on the break. The result that prices came back to about previous closing levels and around mid-session were holding steady in a featureless trade. At commencement of the final hour support came out in better style and early sellers reversed their operations. This was due in part to an increased estimate of export business, some placing the total as high as 75,000 bushels.

Futures again showed a fractional advance but the upturn was too rapid for the market to sustain a balance and in the last five minutes a reaction took place. The cash wheat situation was quiet with spreads unchanged. Winnipeg futures closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower. Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 lower on Winnipeg.

N. Y. Market Analysis

New York, April 29.—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Bureau says:

ANOTHER DIP, THEN RALLY

"Yesterday's market provided us with the day of hesitation which it was thought would interpose itself between the Monday's session and to-day as a result of the wide spread attitude of waiting for the steel meeting. Now that it has become news and incidentally fulfilled predictions to the extent of resulting in the regular dividend for the stock, we will of course have to consider some of the offsetting effect of the five cents per share earnings for the first quarter. This, I believe, will serve to bring about some more activity on the part of the bear party, probably early in the day to-day, but think that before the close the effects of whatever raiding we see will have been wiped out and the way cleared for a fairly substantial rally over the balance of the week. In other words, the failure of the quarter's earnings to meet the average of general expectations around 50 cents simply added another day of hesitation to that which was expected and seen yesterday.

"These earnings, incidentally will probably focus some attention on Bethlehem Steel dividend meeting tomorrow, as it is hardly to be expected that the type of earnings statement for Bethlehem that goes with 5 cents for steel, will produce any such consideration toward its dividend. Nevertheless the balance of the week with this exception, should pretty well fulfill the expectations voiced here yesterday of seeing the period bring forth some indications of a change in the immediate future is concerned, the second and third quarters have always been characterized by poor during depression, but it might well be recalled that when the company once endured some criticism for having paid only small dividends out of a large year's earnings, the head of the banking house associated with it is reported to have answered, 'You have an umbrella for when it rains, that's why we have a surplus.' You might well consider these next two quarters in this light, and not overlook the reasonable expectation for them expressed here yesterday, which pointed out that present and past company policy implied a perfect willingness to dip into surplus for two or three unearned dividends rather than lower the rate.

"Some stocks which appeared to be rather well bought yesterday and which thus provide suitable purchases on any dip to-day, are U.S. Steel in the lower 120's, American Can, below 113, General Motors around 37 to 38, Case Threshing close to 75, United Aircraft around 35 and Baltimore and Ohio below 60, as well as a few other standard rails around their closing prices."

No Wonder Men Are Better Satisfied With Marriage Than Women Are: For a Man Merely Annexes a Wife to His Life, But a Woman Gives Up Everything She Values for a Husband Who May Fail Her

WOMEN are much more anxious to get married than men are. Women consider being old maids the greatest misfortune that can befall them. While men regard being old bachelors as a special dispensation from Lady Luck.

Yet women find less happiness in marriage than men do, and there are more wives dissatisfied with their husbands than there are husbands who are dissatisfied with their wives.

These ironic conclusions, which prove the inconsistency of women, or that women are better wives than men are husbands, or something, are the result of the findings of a scientist who has been making a study of marriage for the Rockefeller Institute.

Out of 100 men he questioned fifty-tenths. Most of the married men were satisfied with their wives as is, but two-thirds of the wives had some bone to pick with their husbands.

Most of the married men were satisfied with their wives as is, but two-thirds of the wives had some bone to pick with their husbands.

"And why wouldn't men like marriage better than women do," women will exclaim in chorus. "Goodness knows, they get the best of it. Of course, marriage isn't any picnic for anybody. It is work and worry, and doing what you don't want to do, and not doing the things you are dying to do, and dragging the ball and chain, but even so it is harder on the woman than it is on the man.

"To begin with, when a man gets married he just annexes a wife to everything else he had in life, whereas a woman substitutes a husband for everything she has heretofore enjoyed in life. If a man gets a good wife who looks after his physical comfort and who fusses over him and pets him as if he were a baby and who keeps him amused and entertained as if she were a vaudeville team, then, oh joy, oh delight, oh golden wedding bells!

"He is sitting pretty on the lap of the gods because he has his business or profession, his ambitions, all of the outside interests that have given thrill and zest to his life, and in addition he has got domestic peace and happiness, and a mate and children thrown in for added bliss.

"And even if the woman he marries doesn't turn out to be all his fondest fancy painted, it isn't so hard on him as it is on a woman who is disappointed in marriage because he has his consolations. He has his business that takes him away from home as much as he likes. He has his ambitions on which he can concentrate his mind so that he doesn't have to be always thinking about what a perfect dud his wife is, and if he is bored at his own hearthstone he can find plenty of intelligent and interesting people to talk to abroad.

"But when a woman gets married she is utterly dependent on her husband for her happiness, and if he fails her she is sunk. Nine times out of ten she has to give up her job and her ambitions and her outside interests when she gets married, or when the first baby comes. This is well and good if her husband is companionable and appreciative and tender and kind and generous, but it turns her life into cinders, ashes and dust if he is grumpy and sullen, and one of the sort who regards a wife merely as a piece of useful household machinery.

"For she can't leave her babies to seek outside distractions and amusements. She has to stay put and do the kind of work that uses only one lobe of her brain, while the rest of it is brooding over her wrongs and disappointments, and exaggerating every defect in her matrimonial bargain.

"Then look how much harder we women work to please our husbands and make ourselves attractive to them than they do to us. If we don't like our husbands as they are, we can lump it, and they should worry.

"I never heard of a man doing without anything that he wanted to eat in order to maintain the boyish figure that his wife fell in love with, but I hardly know a married woman who isn't counting her calories and going through her daily dozen, and who doesn't get herself parboiled and skinned and scalped in beauty parlors trying to look young and slim and girlish to her husband.

"And we wives positively get lockjawed wearing the smile that won't come off so that we can be little sunshines around the home for our husbands, and we get so we could walk on eggs gumshoeing around the subjects that irritate our lords and masters, and we dress ourselves up to please them, and we are ready to step out if they want to go, or stay at home if they prefer it, and we hone up on politics and the stock market so we can hand out an entertaining line of conversation.

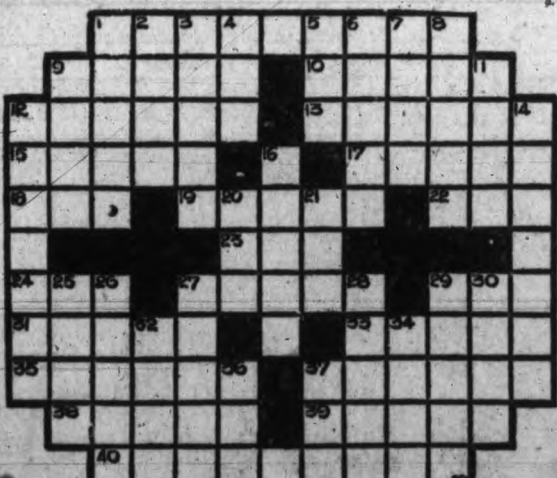

"But did you ever hear of a husband who wore himself out trying to make a hit with his wife? Never. When hubby has had a bad day at the office he comes home and takes it out on the family. He glums and glooms when he feels that way, and he considers it a husband's privilege to say things to his wife that he wouldn't dare say to the cook, and he would no more think about reading up on the subjects she is interested in than he would in taking a course in Sanskrit.

"Oh, yes, take it from us that it is women who get the hot end of the matrimonial trade, so it is no wonder that men are better satisfied with marriage than women are."

DOES LIFE EXIST ON MARS?
OPPOSING VIEWS PRESENTED

Huge Irrigation Canals Indicate
Superior Intelligence of Martians, Says Speaker

Victoria Astronomical Society Hears Five Speakers on
"Life in the Universe"

Not only is there life on Mars, but the Martians have superior intelligence to the earth dwellers, said H. Boyd Brydon in his presentation of Lowell's conception of Mars before the Victoria branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada at Victoria College yesterday evening.

The speaker based his belief on the huge Martian canals that appeared to be regular and "unnatural" to be the handwork of capricious Nature. N. C.
Stewart, a subsequent speaker, endeavored to disprove the "canal theory" in the light of more recent evidence. The canal system showed considerable irregularity, he asserted, and did not seem to be the work of intelligent beings.

FIVE SPEAKERS HEARD
The question of whether or not there is life on Mars was only one of the interesting subjects dealt with by the five speakers who addressed the meeting. "Life in the Universe" was the general topic under discussion, and though each speaker took a certain section of the main subject, the impression at the end was of a painstaking collaboration to produce an interrelated whole. Dr. J. A. Pearce spoke on "Life on the Earth," Capt. J.
H. Hughes on "Mercury, Venus and the Outer Planets," H. Boyd Brydon on "Lowell's Conception of Mars," and N.
C. Stewart on the more modern ideas concerning Mars. Dr. C. S. Beale, the chairman, gave a broad outline of the whole question of life in the universe.

In opening the discussion of the existence of life outside our solar system, Dr. Beale said the possibility of such life existing was small. One could as well imagine life in a vacuum kept at absolute zero. But even though the possibility appeared small, it was dangerous to assume that the earth was the only centre of life.

ORIGIN OF LIFE
Dr. Pearce followed with a talk on "Life on the Earth." He discussed his subject from two angles—the origin of life and the evolution of life. He said the traditional opinion of the origin was the creation of something from "nothing." Modern science laid stress on human evolution as a natural step in the evolution of the cosmos, and favored the physico-chemical origin of life. Both views, however, went all the way back to the Greek philosophers.

One theory was that the earth was originally like the moon, but had built up a substantial lithosphere and hydrosphere for itself out of an exhalation from its own interior. Its surface was found to consist of about a dozen inorganic elements. The way in which these elements became, first, an organism and then living, intelligent beings was the puzzle. A catalytic agent, known as enzyme, was often credited with the development.

A very interesting chart was produced showing the various stages of life—a lifeless earth to begin with, then an unicellular period, an invertebrate period, then an age for fish and amphibians, then the birds and reptiles, then the mammals, and finally man.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION
In his address on Mercury, Venus and the outer planets, Captain Hughes, Cobble Hill, gave as a theory of the origin of the earth's solar system, the gravitational force of some great star pulling away large chunks from the sun as the star passed close by. This theory would imply that all the planetary system was "of the same stuff" and had gone through the same process from the gaseous to the liquid to the solid.

Darwin was not an atheist, he continued, after making mention of Mill-man's dictum that belief from evolution did not mean disbelief in religion.
"What is life?" Captain Hughes asked his audience. Nobody knew. Jean's two points were that life will reproduce and will tend to the more complex.

In any inquiry as to the existence of life on the planets, one should ask whether the three essentials of life—warmth, air, moisture, continued the speaker. Just as with a group seated around a camp fire, the planets farthest from the sun will be the coldest. It appeared that planets nearer the sun than the earth would not have sufficient warmth to harbor life. As for air, the moon had no appreciable atmosphere and Mercury had a very rare
one. Venus appeared the most favorable from the standpoint of warmth and atmosphere, and in Captain Hughes's opinion it was the only planet where there was a fair chance of "life as we know it" existing.

MARTIANS
In his enthralling address on Lowell's conception of Mars, H. Boyd Brydon favored the opinion that not only were there physical beings on Mars (as well as the vegetable life accepted by most astronomers) but that the Martians were of a higher order of intelligence than the people of the earth.

The speaker based his theory on the huge canals observed on the planet.
They were too "unnatural," too artificial, to be anything else but of human design, he asserted. Their presence argued a wonderfully developed system of irrigation to catch the water that melted from the observable polar cap.
Two of Mr. Brydon's arguments for the existence of life on Mars was that clouds had been observed above the planet, indicating moisture and mild weather; and that the white polar cap was observed to recede and advance according to the season, indicating the presence of heat. A fine series of slides loaned by the head of the observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona, were shown during this address.

"CANALS" NOT ARTIFICIAL
Taking the more modern view of Mars, N. C. Stewart, B.C.L.S., refuted several of the opinions advanced by Mr. Brydon. "The assertion of Lowell and others that the canal network of Mars is of such a striking regularity that it cannot be explained as a natural phenomenon, that it must be artificial and the work of intelligent beings, is discounted by Trumpler," he said. "His representation of the network shows considerable irregularity and does not give the impression of artificiality. In some cases the lines are closely crowded, intersecting without apparent system, in other parts the meshes are wide. Occasionally several lines cross one another without passing through the same point."

considered that the canals were covered with vegetation like the dark areas and that the network followed certain natural geological formations.
"Mars is one and a half times as far from the sun as the earth and receives only four ninths the amount of sunlight per unit area," Mr. Stewart pointed out. "The surface temperature was therefore cooler than the earth's.
There was vegetable life on Mars, but the question of animal life was doubtful, the speaker summed up.

A vote of thanks to the four speakers of the evening was moved by Dr. J. S.
Flaskett, who referred to the pleasure he as a professional astronomer had got from listening to the addresses of such keen amateurs.

MAURICE CHEVALIER
IN COMEDY OF PARIS
ON COLISEUM SCREEN

The new Maurice Chevalier laugh-and-love hit "Playboy of Paris," in which the celestial star sings and makes love in true Parisian style is now at the Coliseum Theatre.

All the Chevalier whimsicality and all the Chevalier personality are at their best in this rollicking tale of a waiter with aspirations to "paint the town red" who falls heir to a million francs only to find himself tied to his job. So, waiter by day, the millionaire man-about-town at night, he leads a "double life" that mystifies his numerous lady friends in both spheres.

EDWARD HORTON IS IN LEADING ROLE IN THE CAPITOL STORY

Edward Everett Horton, who plays a featured part in "Kiss Me Again" at the Capitol Theatre for the last time to-day, has taken a wider variety of roles than almost any other leading man on the stage or screen. His parts vary from serious to high comedy, and from straight leading roles to character parts. He played in stock in Los Angeles before entering pictures. One of his most famous parts was that of the builder, "Ruggles," in "Ruggles of Red Gap."

POPULAR FILM TEAM
IN FAMOUS FEATURE
AT THE PLAYHOUSE

For the first time since their memorable performance in "Tenth Heaven" Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are given a real opportunity at powerful dramatic roles in Raoul Walsh's "The Man Who Came Back" and they make the very most of this opportunity is attested to by the rounds of applause which greet their every performance on the screen. This Fox Movietone picture is now showing.

BARBARA STANWYCK AT THE DOMINION IN MODERN PICTURE

Those who have been singing, humming and dancing to the tune of the popular song "Ten Cents a Dance" will note with interest that Barbara Stanwyck has been given the leading role in the Columbia picture which bears the same title. The screen offering, "Ten Cents a Dance," to be shown at the Dominion Theatre for three days, starting to-day was based upon the song hit.
The lyric for the song was written by Lorenz Hart and the music by Richard Rodgers. Song records and sheet music of this melody have been widely distributed, the popularity of the tune being further attested by the fact that public demand for the selection has been increased since the announcement that Columbia was producing the film,
"Ten Cents a Dance."

"Fra Diavolo" One Of Popular Operas

"Fra Diavolo," the second opera to be put on by the Victoria Operatic Society at the Royal on Friday and Saturday, is one of the most fascinating of operas, as well as one of the most popular and beautiful of the standard operas, and will be given with all the care as to detail that was so noticeable in "Boccaccio."

Mrs. C. G. Worn is the director of the orchestra, and Ted Holloway of the chorus, composed of friends and
"bridesmaids of Zerlina, villagers, soldiers and mountaineers."
"Fra Diavolo" is unique in its working out of dramatically comic situations, and the scene in act 2 in the bedroom of Zerlina is vivid with French piquancy, for while she sings to herself while undressing, three wicked bandits are hidden in her closet, watching her and listening to her song.

The opera has a most unexpected ending when Fra Diavolo is captured and secured and the plot comes to an unlooked for and surprising climax.

COLUMBIA DIRECTOR
MET WATER MISHAP
WHEN MAKING FILM

Perry Finnerman, assistant cameraman on the First National and Vistaphone production "Top Speed" now running at the Columbia Theatre, slipped and fell into lake Narconian, the location where the speedboat race scenes were made. All he lost was three packages of cigarettes.
